prejudice which caused some of our Kentucky representatives to declaim and vote against.

Perhaps these soft hearted, wise headed moderns will do something to nationalize crime. If it is not a relic of barbarism, and if it does not flourish like a green bey tree in Kentucky, would it not be well to pass an act to deal with it more tenderly still than provided for by our loose jointed laws at present?

Mrs. Nancy Harman, of Masfield, O., writes: "I have been under the care of a physician during the past ever years. Sometime I would feel worse. The past two years nothing seemed to help me.
